
SELIM – STYLESHEET
& INSTRUCTIONS TO AUTHORS

Journal of the Spanish Society for Mediaeval English Language and Literature
Revista de la Sociedad Española de Lengua y Literatura Inglesa Medieval

Selim publishes articles, notes, reviews, book notes and other scientific papers that contribute to the advancement of Medieval English Studies and Comparative Medieval Studies.

Originals submitted for possible publication will be subject to peer reviewing, and should not have been sent to other journals or means of publication. Selim assumes that all authors have the intellectual copyright to their originals, and that other authors quoted as “personal communication” sources also consent to being cited.

Contributions are to be sent to the Editors (selim@web.uniovi.es), and should follow these principles:

- 1.- Send your work on a machine-readable file via email, using a word processing programme, or on a pdf format. The file should include the author(s)'s name(s), a contact address & affiliation(s). If using traditional mail, send your proposal to the editors' postal address. Authors will receive a confirmation of reception and will be informed about the result of the process of reviewing as soon as possible.
 - 2.- Once your proposal has been accepted a pdf file or a printed high-quality version of the article(s), note(s), etc. may be required by the editors.
 - 3.- Originals should be sent preferably on a standard text-processor file, and although there is not an extension limit, the following recommendations may be taken into consideration: ± 8,000 words for articles; ± 3,000 words for longer notes and critical reviews, and ± 1,500 words for shorter notes.

- 4.- Originals should include a \pm 150 words abstract in English, and a short list of keywords. The abstract or summary is to explain the purpose of the paper, method(s), results and, eventually, conclusions.
 - 5.- Figures, tables, graphs, pictures and illustrations of any kind must be properly titled and numbered, and preferably placed at the end of the file. Their maximum size is 10.00 cms (width) X 16.00 cms (height). The journal is printed in black & white, but the electronic journal admits colour.
 - 6.- Please avoid using tabs, return, and paragraph special formats as much as possible. Nesting for quotations must be defined for the whole cite. A style template is available upon request.
 - 7.- Footnotes should be consecutively numbered in the electronic file, and placed at the foot, or at the end of the document if a printed version is sent. Authors using other word processors than the standard ones must not use the automatic numbering for footnotes that their processors may have, but instead write the footnote reference numbers between brackets, f. i.: (13). Sources references must be kept within the main text in abbreviated author-date form (f.i.: Lacarra 1989: 3), while footnotes should be reserved for further information, discussion, etc.
 - 8.- Avoid using non-Laser fonts (Times-based fonts are recommended, especially Peter Baker's Junicode: <http://junicode.sourceforge.net/>), and please let the editors know which other fonts might have been typed into the files.
 - 9.- References, alphabetically ordered, should follow the author-date form and listed at the end of the original. Examples:
